NPI Services, Inc. and The Big Commencement (June 25, 2014)

Recently, NPI Services has participated in a goodly number of University of California events, particularly in sciences and engineering at UC Irvine. The first three weeks of June have seen ARCS Scholar Anne Kelly of the Earth System Science Department at UCI defend her California-focused doctoral thesis, "Climate controls on ecosystem range, biomass, and water cycling." The next day, UCI's School of Engineering and School of Information & Computer Sciences hosted Ingenuity 2014, an event introduced by a timely and important keynote address, presentation of awards to benefactors of the schools, and a showcase of the top student projects from the two schools, with plenty of opportunity to meet the students and discuss their work. That weekend ...

UC Irvine Engineering Student Projects "Wow" NPI Services! (June 17, 2014)

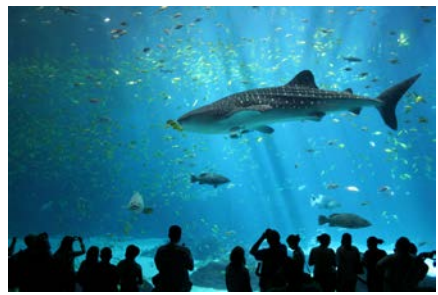

Ingenuity 2014,

a showcase of this year's top student projects from the schools of information/computer sciences (ICS) and engineering at UC Irvine, impressed NPI Services visitors with the "wow" factor for the importance and depth of the students' work. A spokesperson from each student project group gave an overview to all the assembled guests in the Beckman Center auditorium. Later, individual attendees had the opportunity to meet each student group at their respective display tables at a patio reception.

UC Bioengineering Symposium Student Shark Tank Features Judge Judy (Greenspon!) (June 18, 2014)

The 15th Annual UC Systemwide Bioengineering Symposium is being hosted this year by UC Irvine, and a fun highlight of this event is the Shark Tank competition! NPI Services, Inc., Founder and President Judy Greenspon is one of five judges selected for the Student Shark Tank competition held today, Wednesday June 18th, 2014! Business leaders are chosen to bring a real-world perspective to budding engineering entrepreneurs. Students who have passed the first round by their successful video auditions of 2-minute elevator pitches, will now present their innovative ideas to the panel of five sharks, that is, judges. Check in later in the week for an update after Judge Judy returns from the feeding frenzy!

Update: NPI Services, Inc. Earns ISO 13485 Certification!

Back in August 2013, while reporting about exhibiting and being Judge Judy (Greenspon, again!) at BIOCOM's Medical Device & Diagnostics EXPO 2013, you may recall that our ISO 13485 certification was in its final stage of approval. Many of you already know that NPI Services has been ISO 13485 certified as of last November, enabling NPI to provide services not only for medical prototypes, but medical electronic production as well.
